One day we say, "I wouldn't be seen dead in it," and the next day we're wearing it! The big fashion houses in London, Paris and Milan decide what we should wear from year to year. For a time, it is fashionable for men to wear narrow trousers and wide ties until baggy trousers and narrow ties take their place.

Fashion is a term used to describe the creation of clothing, footwear, accessories, cosmetics and jewellery.

Fashion decides how we should appear; not only the clothes we wear but shoes, hair, handbags and jewellery. Even if we think we can ignore fashions, we have to buy the clothes that designers think we should wear.

Following fashion is important to the extent that it is part of who you are and where you are going. You can follow fashion, relate it to your personal life but not necessarily “be in it” or have a closet full of innovative designs. For example, you might follow trends and trendsetters, know what designers are doing for the following season but stick to your regular jeans and T-shirt attire but have that special bag that keeps your look sharp and smart. D READING COMPREHENSION

• Read the following passage, then answer the questions below.

In today's fast-paced world, many people worry that modern technology is making us forget our roots. However, cultural identity remains a powerful force that connects individuals to their past. Every culture has its own unique traditions, from the way people greet each other to the food they eat. For instance, while some cultures value a quick handshake, others, like in Kenya or Japan, see greetings as a long-standing tradition of respect and social connection.

Museums play a vital role in preserving this heritage. The opening of the Grand Egyptian Museum (GEM) is a perfect example of how a country can celebrate its history. This massive project allows young Egyptians to explore thousands of artifacts that had been hidden for years. By seeing the treasures of King Tutankhamun, students begin to appreciate the achievements of their ancestors and understand how ancient traditions have shaped modern life.

Preserving heritage is not just about looking at the past; it is about building a bridge to the future. Reading is one of the most important skills a person can develop throughout their lifetime. It helps expand knowledge, improve vocabulary, and enhance imagination in ways that few other activities can match. People who read regularly tend to have better communication skills and a deeper understanding of the world around them. They can express their thoughts more clearly and engage in meaningful conversations about various topics.

Beyond academic and professional benefits, reading can also be a wonderful way to relax and unwind. Many people find that reading before bed helps them reduce stress and sleep better. Reading different types of books, such as fiction, history, science, or biography, can expose readers to new ideas and perspectives they might never encounter otherwise. A novel might teach empathy by letting you experience life through another person's eyes.

Nowadays, technology has made reading more accessible than ever before. Reading Comprehension

Read the following, then answer the question:

There are deserts all over the world. They can be found in Africa, China, South America, and North America. In some places, deserts are growing. This is a serious problem because deserts destroy farmland and ruin land where animals live. When people cannot grow food or find animals to eat, they have to leave their homes. Sometimes, nature can cause deserts to spread. Wind can move sand away from deserts and onto useful land. When there is no rain for a long time, plants die and deserts grow. However, humans can also cause deserts to grow. This is called desertification, and it happens in many ways.

One way is when people cause too much air pollution, which can make an area hotter. Hotter weather can reduce the amount of rain as well. Too many people in one area can also damage the land. In addition, having many animals can harm the land. When large animals like cows walk on soil too much, they turn it into dust. The wind easily blows this dust away. Trees help hold water in the ground. When people cut down too many trees, less water stays in the ground, and the soil is ruined. All of these things can speed up desertification. To stop deserts from growing, people must think of ways to treat the land better.

- What happens if there is no rain for a long time?
a. Flood b. Earthquake c. Drought d. Hurricane

Shopping is a necessary part of life, which very few people can avoid. The weekend is usually a good time to go shopping because people have free time from work. At this time, the shops are usually busy because people try to get the best items for the lowest price before they run out of stock. Some people go shopping more regularly than other people to browse products in shops even when they do not have much money. This is known as window shopping and allows people to plan ahead and save for the things they want to buy in the future or wait for the items to drop in price. Some people believe that the more expensive the item, the better the quality, but this is not always true. Sometimes shopping can be very stressful when choosing a gift to buy other people for a special occasion. Space tourism is becoming more popular every year. Companies like SpaceX and Blue Origin are working hard to make it possible for ordinary people to travel to space. Unlike professional astronauts, tourists do not need years of training, but safety remains a top priority.

Trips to space can last from a few minutes to several days. Passengers experience weightlessness, see the Earth from above, and can even take photos of the planet from space. Some travelers describe the experience as life-changing because it gives them a new perspective on life and our planet.

Despite the excitement, space tourism faces many challenges. Tickets are extremely expensive, making them affordable only for very rich people. Environmental concerns are also growing because rocket launches release gases that may harm the atmosphere. Experts are working on developing green technology to make space travel more sustainable in the future.

Reading Comprehension

In today's fast-paced world, many people worry that modern technology is making us forget our roots. However, cultural identity remains a powerful force that connects individuals to the past. Every culture has its own unique traditions, from the way people greet each other to the food they eat. For instance, while some cultures value a quick handshake, others, like in Kenya or Japan, see greetings as a long-standing tradition of respect and social connection.

Museums play a vital role in preserving this heritage. The opening of the Grand Egyptian Museum (GEM) is a perfect example of how a country can celebrate its history. This massive project allows young Egyptians to explore thousands of artifacts that had been hidden for years. By seeing the treasures of King Tutankhamun, students begin to appreciate the achievements of their ancestors and understand how ancient traditions have shaped modern life.

Preserving heritage is not just about looking at the past; it is about building a bridge to the future. When young people engage with their culture through school projects or museum visits, they develop a sense of pride and belonging. This helps them stay motivated and confident as they navigate a globalized world. Understanding where we come from is the best way to decide where we are going.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

Once Wealth and Poverty approached a merchant and introduced themselves as visitors. The merchant offered his salutations to both of them and said: "May I know what brings you to my shop?" Wealth said: "We want you to judge and tell us who is more beautiful between us two?" The merchant was in a fix. If he were to declare wealth as more beautiful than poverty, poverty would curse him. If he were to declare poverty as more beautiful, than wealth, wealth would forsake him. However, he regained his composure and said: "I have great respect for you both. Would you please act according to my instructions? Then only I can judge properly." The visitors agreed.

He said: "Mother wealth, would you please go to the entrance (gates) and wall: into the house? Mother, poverty! Would you please walk from here towards the gates? I can have a good look at you both, from near and far." The two visitors did walk as the merchant wished them to.

Then the merchant happily declared: "Mother wealth! You appear very beautiful when you enter the house. Mother poverty! You look very beautiful when you leave the house!" The visitors appreciated the wisdom of the merchant. Wealth happily stayed in his house while poverty cheerfully walked away.
